

Empire White Paper

Executive Summary

Rap and hip hop has always been at the forefront of the intersection of art and technology. From its advent, melodies and beats were created by audio engineers that mapped out the rhythms and rhyming of the musicians we see and have seen throughout the industry's history. Our company intends to push the boundaries of that intersection once more. Through our passionate musicians, a strong quantifiable track record of shows and events, and our own audio engineering model that will create melodies for our musicians. Our ecosystem facilitates a robust- seamless workflow that feeds on itself. A system trained and fine tuned by the data set of rhythm and melodies produced by our talent. This gives artists the resources they need to alleviate the pressure of a deadline in addition to rigid preferences often demanded by events. Now, with our model and our talent learning from each other, we can effectively create a system/workflow where artists can simply focus on doing what they love.

Multi-Banner Strategic Architecture

Structure

- Empire Business
  - The legal entity itself. Both EBF and EMP are essentially subsidiaries
- Empire Business Family
  - The business/branding end of the entity. This subsidiary handles the distributional factors. Such factors include but are not limited to merchandise and fashionwear, tech development or R&D, studio & office space, networking, event booking, and public speaking or performance.
- Empire Multimedia Production
  - When artists enter the developmental ecosystem, they will generally start here. EMP is where artists can essentially be artists. Developing and working on their craft while networking and creating invaluable data sets that will ultimately work to enable them to maximize their full creative potential.
